Samuel Stancil's monument

This marker includes Stancil Family History beginning with John Stancil, who sailed from England and landed in Virginia in 1683. Our lineage is traced to the children of John Thomas Stancil and Delaney Sasser.

Samuel, the father of John Thomas Stancil, died when Tom was only 3 1/2 years old. Sons James Henry was 6, Josiah was 1 1/2 years old and Jacob wasn't born yet.

Four years after Samuel died, in 1848, his wife Martha Patsy Rentfrow Stancil, married Gillis Hales. Now the Stancil Homestead became the Hales Homestead.

Tom married Delaney Sasser and they settled on Sasser Land, about a mile from Stancil Field.

Tom named his second son, Samuel, in honor of his father. It was quite fitting that this Samuel's great-grandson, Jerry Durward Stancil, located the grave of his namesake, Samuel Stancil, 1816~1844, in the Hales Cemetery on Shoeheel Road in Johnston County, N.C.

Tom told grandson Ralph Stancil, "The last time I saw my father's grave, a large pine tree was growing there." When Jerry located the grave, he found two large tree cavities beside it.

Ralph Stancil searched many old graveyards for his great-grandpa's grave. Although he never found the grave, he walked across it countless times when visiting his great-grandma,

Samuel Stancil's monument is at Hales Cemetery on Shoeheel Road.

Martha Patsy Rentfrow Stancil Hales' grave. He had a sign made for the Hales Cemetery.

Jerry Durward Stancil is the son of Freeman Durward Stancil and the grandson of Freeman Elbert Stancil, great-grandson of Samuel Stancil, great-great grandson of Tom Stancil, and great-great-great grandson of Samuel Stancil.

Jerry worked with Dean Joyner and Larry Joyner, the great-grandson of Tempy Ann Stancil. Tempy was the oldest daughter of Tom Stancil. Dean and Larry are the owners of Joyner's Memorial of Wilson, N.C.

Donations by the Pat Whitfield Family, the George Ralph Stancil Family and the Jerry Durward Stancil Family made the historical monument possible.

Mavis Cassandra Hill Godwin

Mavis was born Nov. 12, 1918, and she was delivered by a Negro midwife, Aunt Topsey. She was the first daughter of Millard and Zilphia Stancil Hill. Mavis was named for her maternal grandma, Cassandra Moore.

Mavis had natural curly red hair. When she turned 40, her hair turned black with red highlights. Her eyes are blue when wearing blue, green when wearing green.

Uncle Clarence Hill nicknamed her "Mate." An early job was driving the geese into the field to weed it by eating the grass.

Mavis had an organ at home but learned to play the piano at a neighbor's house. After she retired she took piano lessons at the community college. Her favorite song was "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands." This sums up how Mavis feels about the world.

Mavis was smart — she skipped third grade. She was also a good actress, playing Mrs. Santa Claus in a school play.

Mavis met Narvin Godwin at Glendale School. They were secretly married in Dillon, S.C. Mavis and Narvin moved into a small wooden 4-room house and Narvin became a tenant farmer for her pa. Mavis and Narvin moved to Rocky Mount and when the war started Mavis worked in the mill.

Mavis and son Gene

In 1954, Mavis and Narvin bought a 45 acre farm near Elm City, N.C., and later added 55 more acres. The house was built in 1840 by slaves using pegs. Tobacco was the main money crop. Mavis kept her job at the mill, juggling work, motherhood and farm chores.

Her children are Gene, Randall, Diane and James Earl. Grandchildren are Beth, Jennifer, Scott, Sean, Cathy, Cindy Jo, Kelly, Chris. Great grandchildren are Evan, Mason, Carson, Caitlyn, Paige, Logan, Nicole, Seth and Allie.

Mavis is passing on family history and recipes. She taught grandchildren Jennifer, Beth, Cindy Jo and Sean to make her special oven cornbread.

Mavis' famous sayings, "Don't spit no juice out on me," and "The ends go north, east, south and west."

Mavis remembers her childhood as a time when everybody knew each other and loved each other. Today she still has that wonderful love for family.

Gerald 'Jerry' Wayne Hill, husband of Brenda Wiggins Eason Hill, George Branch, died following a brief illness, at 12:30 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 16, 2010, Brenda's birthday. Jerry was born Nov. 4, 1936 in Ohio.

Their first date was at Ruth's Chris Steak House. Jerry wore a suit and presented Brenda with a dozen long stemmed red roses.

They were married on March 12, 2005, with the blessings of Brenda's family. Jerry embraced Brenda's family as his own.

Jerry loved his extended family, their special closeness and was welcomed as a family member. Reflecting on her short time with

Jerry Hill

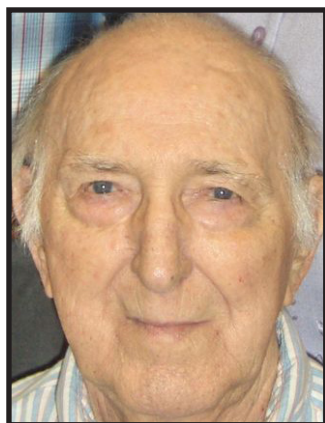

Jerry, Brenda knows they shared a blessed union and treasures their days spent together. They were filled with laughter, love and happiness. Brenda thanks God for bringing this unique, sweet, kind, loving and unselfish man into her life.

Randolph Moore

Randolph Moore, 93, husband of the late Norma Stancil Moore, died Dec. 18, 2009, in Fort Walton Beach, Fla. He was the father of Janet Winkler of Fort Walton Beach and Donna Padgett of Rocky Mount, N.C.

Randolph was a retired locomotive fireman and engineer for the Atlantic Coast Line, Seaboard Coast Line, and CSX Corporation.

Born in Pender County Oct. 30, 1916. He worked on his family's farm in Nash County. He graduated from Benvenue School in Rocky Mount and attended Atlantic Christian College two years. In between he served in the

Randolph Moore

U.S. Army in 1936-37.

Randolph was an avid reader and a dedicated gardener. He enjoyed attending Railroad Old-Timers' dinners and Democratic Party functions.

Arnettie Branch death

Robert Carico

Robert 'Bob' Edward Carico, of the Arnettie Branch, died at home on Wednesday, Oct. 7, 2009. He was 73.

His beloved wife and soul mate was Marvelene, daughter of Wilbert and Mayzell Hill.

Bob was considered the family jokester. He kept a smile on his face and loved teasing his family and friends. Bob had the unique ability to imitate animal sounds with such accuracy that folks turned around trying to locate the animals. This delighted the grandchildren.

Bob's life was an example of Proverbs 17:22 "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine."

Robert and Marvelene Carico

One of Bob's favorite movies was "O Brother How Are Thou?" It reminded him of his boyhood in Virginia.

Son Michael once asked his dad, "Why did you never grow up?" Bob replied, "If I ever grow up, I'll get old and die!"

Ethel Hales Stancil misses first reunion in 58 years

The first reunion Ethel attended was in 1934 when she became engaged to George Ralph Stancil. They courted by letters beginning in 1932. Ralph wrote inquiring about jobs in Florida. The next letter Ralph wrote was on his way to California seeking work. They began writing regularly. Her book, "Love For Keeps," contains these letters.

Ralph had first met Ethel, a precocious 11 year old in 1927, when he went to Florida with Robert Pittman, a half brother of Fletcher Pittman who married Gertrude Stancil.

In August 1935, Ralph rode the Greyhound Bus from California to Ocala, Fla., arriving three days before the wedding. He had just enough time to get a marriage license and purchase a small gold wedding band with orange blossoms. Ethel and Ralph were married at the First Christian Church and immediately caught the Greyhound Bus for North Carolina and the 1935 Reunion.

After the reunion, they rode the Greyhound Bus to California and Ralph's job as foreman of the 10,000 acre ranch, Rodeo Valley Rancho. In California Ethel met two of Ralph's first cousins, sons of Josiah; Harry Lester Stancil Sr., called Harry, wife Laura, children Chuck, Lester, Joe, Betty, Ellie and Herbert 'Herb' Andrew

Ralph and Ethel at the 1934 Reunion

Stancil, wife Lil, children Patricia, Beverly and Barbara.

The next reunion Ethel attended was in 1952. At the 1960 reunion, she started making nametags. This tradition continues today, with her daughter Renn Stancil Hinton, making nametags for everyone, and keeping up with the Registrations.

For many years, Ethel and Ralph, hosted a luncheon at Parker's Barbeque for the George Ira Stancil branch. This luncheon was held on the Saturday before the Reunion.

Ethel has a recurring leg wound infection, which has caused her to miss this year's reunion. Ralph, Ethel and family had visited North Carolina after Christmas and were on their way home to Florida when an automobile accident occurred on Jan. 3, 1951. Ethel wanted to be here with us today, but she is still in a rehab center for IV treatment. She hopes to be back home by Sept. 27.

Her address is Ethel Stancil, 6000 N. U.S. Highway 27, Ocala, FL 32177

John Archer news

'Marty' Margaret Loy Sellers, is the daughter of Margaret Stancil Sellers and has had many interesting jobs and acquired many skills over the years. She majored in Biology at Dunbarton College in Washington, D.C., and worked in alcohol and drug abuse research for more than 10 years. She worked in construction for three years.

Marty, like her Uncle 'Tom' Worth Hayes Stancil, had an interest in accounting. She signed up for classes and did accounting for several years. During this time she found out she had Crohn's Disease and had to make many adjustments to this disability and give up full time employment.

Marty remained active in her North Grosvenor Dale, Conn., community. She has a reputation of being smart and working hard. Marty chaired the Thompson Democratic Town Committee and served on the Thompson Inland Wetland and Conservation Committee.

Marty's mother, Margaret, helped out with Reunion Registration for a number of years until her health prevented her from attending. We are fortunate that in 2006, Marty began attending the reunion and helping out at the registration table.

Donell's family has been farming in Johnston County for at least 50 years. Donell grew up on his family farm in the Glendale Community. He was the first in his family to graduate from college, N.C. State in 1955. Since then he's grown tobacco, corn, soybeans and wheat. For 17 years Donell was an independent producer of fertile eggs with a 90 percent hatching rate. Donell assisted in on-farm tests and made agricultural mission trips to Brazil and Argentina. He has received numerous farming awards including Johnston County Agribusiness Council award for distinguished service to agriculture, he was selected by Gov. Jim Martin for the Outstanding Volunteerism Award and has been in leadership roles in many organizations.

Donell Stancil is a successful farmer, community and state leader, serves on the Board of the Tobacco Farm Life Museum and North Carolina Agricultural Foundation.
